CARBON DIOXIDE GAS KILLS 12 MINERS

DEADLY FUMES FOLLOW A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

Which Are Seeping Thru the Diggings Endangering the Lives of Thirty Men Left In the Mine—Caught Like Rats In a Trap—Hope Is Held That They May Have Escaped Thru the Ventilator Shaft—Deadly Fumes Delay and Endanger Rescuers.

bureau of mines team from Pittsburgh, the rescuers were ordered out and the rescue chief ordered that brattices of canvas be erected. It was hoped that with the aid of brattices every few feet, the rescuers could combat the gases and advance into the fathermost reaches of the mine. The Clymer No. 1 pit has long been known as a gaseous workings. For some time the miners have used electric lamps as a safeguard. This explosion recalled to the region the mine blast at Starford, near by, two years ago, when 14 were killed.

EDITOR OF HILLSBORO PAPER DIED THURSDAY. Joseph S. Kern, 63, for three years editor and manager of the People's Press, a weekly newspaper published at Hillsboro, died at his home Thursday.

He had been a sufferer from heart disease for many years and severe influenza last winter aggravated his case. He had served as county auditor and deputy auditor for eight years.

He married Miss Jessie Horseman of Highland in 1898. Surviving are his widow, two sons, a brother and six sisters. He was buried at Hillsboro Friday.

WANTED IN COLUMBUS.

Mack and Nettie Ramey, wanted in Columbus, were placed under arrest by the sheriff's department Thursday evening. They are wanted on the charge of secreting mortgaged property. They were taken to Columbus.

Carmel Myers in Chic Cowboy Hat and Scarf

The cowboy hat and scarf outfit is new. Carmel Myers, the "movie" star is first to follow this fad by tying a gay printed scarf rakishly at the side in cowboy fashion to accompany the white felt cowboy hat, so popular this season, and which she wears in "Tell It to the Marines," her latest production.

RUM RUNNER ARRESTED.

R. R. Emerson, of Marion, evidently a rum runner, was placed under arrest Thursday evening at South Bloomfield. His gas wagon went bad and it was noticed that he had a suspicious looking sack in his car. In the sack was a five gallon empty can. Sheriff Young is of the opinion that Emerson was on his way to the hills to load up and take the stuff back to Marion.

Undertaker for Dogs

Makes $317 in Month

Oakland, Calif.—City Poundmaster McTierney has added a funeral wagon to his department and has increased the revenues of the city.

One month 132 private dog funerals were held at a charge of a dollar each. The owner of a goat was assessed $3 for an obsequy. Youthful owners in their "hours of sorrow" do not regard the city's prices as high and this dog mortician netted $317 one month for pet burials.

Scene From the Passion Play in Los Angeles

The famous Pilgrimage play at Los Angeles, Calif., has been brought into the light again, with Reginald Kneeling the role of Christus. The American Passion play is run as a perpetual, nonprofit and nonsectarian enterprise in an outdoor theater bequeathed by Mrs. C. W. Stevens of Philadelphia. This photograph shows "The Last Supper."

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires By Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Middletown—Edward Williams, a pitcher for the Hamilton Coated Paper team of the Central League was slashed 50 times about his arms by three men on the Dixie Highway near here. He had accepted a ride in their automobile. When he replied to a question that he pitched a game last Sunday two of the men grabbed him and the third jabbed his arms with a knife. His wounds are considered serious.

New Philadelphia—John Frazier, New Cumberland, has been appointed deputy sheriff to guard the property of the Lake City Fuel and Supply company's coal mine near here, as the result of shots fired at the company's tipples by known men.

Bucyrus—An argument over a half hour's pay caused Guy E. Smith, 45, ex-deputy sheriff of Crawford county, to be held here under $5,000 bail charged with shooting to wound Frank Ritter, his employer. He is expected to recover.

Cincinnati—A charge of murder has been filed against Thurston Bloomfield 21, who confessed he killed George Richards, 19 amateur athlete in a fight here Tuesday night.

Bloomfield pleading self defense, claimed he stabbed Richards after he had been severely beaten by a gang, taunted him and threw stones at an automobile he was driving. Mrs. Mary Richards Grady, the dead youth's mother told police he went to the aid of Bloomfield when he was attacked.

Newark—William A. Robbins, 70, former president of the Franklin National bank was dead here today. He had been in poor health for several years.

Columbus—Almost 11,000,000 more gallons of gasoline were used during July than a year ago, according to the state commission. Ohio motorists paid $216,000 more in gasoline taxes, accordingly during that month, the commission reported.

Columbus—After a spectacular attempt to saw their way to freedom, Thomas Gerak, Cleveland, "lifer" and Frank Proctor, Cincinnati, serving 10 to 12 years for burglary, were pacing their cells in solitary confinement today at Ohio penitentiary.

A guard, noticing a blanket hung from a window in the prison chapel, became suspicious and upon investigation, discovered that two bars had been almost severed.

Miss Fannie Joseph spent the day with her aunt, Mrs. Hannah Jacobs, in Columbus.

MAIL HOUSES GET BUSINESS FROM FARMERS

More Aggressive Methods of Local Merchants May Do Much to Change.

Four per cent of the total business of the United States is done by 2500 mail-order houses, according to a recent investigation by Edna M. Callahan, home economics extension specialist at the Ohio State university.

This trade, it is estimated, comprises 20 per cent of the merchandising business in small villages and rural communities. Modern conveniences and a rising social standard in the rural communities have increased the number of ready-made garments worn. Many of the large city department stores are adding a mail order department to care for the increasing demand of this service.

Approximately four-fifths of the mail order customers are farmers. Rural community ways of living, generally speaking, are responsible for the growth of this type of business, Miss Callahan believes.

The farmer has often little or no interest in his nearest town. This leaves him without a sense of loyalty or sense of duty which urges him to support the local market. Oftentimes there is even marked antagonism between the town and the rural community.

The mail order catalog is near at hand, well illustrated, with a large variety for selection to save many trips "to town." Backwardness of many small town merchants leaves them to supply only the small purchases that are wanted immediately.

DARBYVILLE CENTENNIAL IN SEPTEMBER

Darbyville will celebrate its centennial Saturday, September 11, with a big homecoming, field day and picnic and the event will undoubtedly attract a great crowd of people from far and near.

The village was laid out in 1826, one hundred years ago and the hundredth anniversary will be celebrated in a manner befitting the occasion.

There will be good speakers, good music, athletic events, horseshoe pitching, other contests and games and amusements of all kinds and an abundance of refreshments and eats.

Mrs. J. W. Adkins and son, Joseph, spent the day in Columbus.

ATTENDED ENCAMPMENT.

Azel Laughlin returned Wednesday evening from Winona Lake, Indiana, where he attended the sixteenth annual encampment of the Kappa Sigma Pi. Mr. Laughlin is chaplain of the local camp. Eighty members were present, representing five states.

The fraternity, which was established in this city, now has twelve hundred members, scattered in forty states.

The Circleville chapter is the oldest and was the first to confer the First and Second degrees. The Phi Beta Pi also held their encampment at the same time at the same place.

MOVED TO NEW HOLLAND

Arthur Barthelmas and family have moved from Pleasant street, this city to New Holland, where he has opened an up-to-date dry goods store in the room formerly occupied by the Dones store.

VIENNESE BEAUTY

Maria Ley, a Viennese actress who is a favorite of the stage in Paris also, is said to be the most beautiful woman in Europe. In the photograph she is wearing a golden wig.

Claims Medal Awarded to Him 24 Years Ago

Washington.—Joseph L. Epps has turned up to claim a congressional medal of honor awarded him 24 years ago for bravery in the Philippines. As a private in the thirty-third United States volunteer infantry in 1899 he is credited with having captured 21 armed Filipinos, forcing them to stack arms and surrender.

The War department, unable to locate Epps, recently received a letter from him at Panama, Okla. He said he had come across his old captain, Lieut. Col. Charles Van Way, retired, of Portland, Ore., and had heard from him about the medal.

It was forwarded to the commanding general of the Eighth corps area, at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, for presentation to Epps with appropriate ceremony.

ELI VALENTINE CUTS THROAT IN THREE PLACES

Attending Physician Says Would-be Suicide Has a Chance to Recover.

Eli Valentine, aged 79, and a well known resident of Oakland, was found by his wife Wednesday about 11 o'clock on the floor of his barn wrapped in a horse blanket with his throat slashed in three places.

It is thought by members of the family that the aged man's attempt to commit suicide followed a lengthy illness of stomach and heart troubles. All night Tuesday night, it is said, he walked the floor and could not lie down or sleep. Early the following morning he left the house and was absent until found by his wife at noon.

In the attempt to end his life, Mr. Valentine used his pocket knife, inflicting two wounds in the neck between an artery and the windpipe and a third wound on the other side of the neck, missing the jugular vein but a short distance on each of the three attempts.

The condition of the aged man is greatly improved, and weakness resulting from the excessive loss of blood is quite evident. Attending physicians assert that he has a good chance for life if pneumonia does not set in.

CLARKSBURG'S BIG FISH FRY NEXT THURSDAY

The big homecoming, field day and picnic at Clarksburg which was to have been held August 18, and postponed on account of bad weather, is now scheduled for next Tuesday, August 31.

United States Senator Frank B. Willis will make an address on that occasion and there will be other speakers of note. Music will be furnished by the Adelphi K. of P. band.

There will be two ball games, one by the girls in the forenoon and the boys in the afternoon. There will also be many other athletic events, contests and all kinds of refreshments.

Last, but not least will be the big fish dinner and supper.

This is an event you cannot afford to miss. The affair is held under the auspices of the Men's Bible class of Clarksburg.

FELLERS FUND IS GROWING VERY NICELY

The fund for the relief of George W. Fellers, whose broommaking shop and equipment were recently destroyed by fire, has now reached $263.90.

About $30 more is needed to replace the loss of Mr. Fellers and the matter will be kept open for about ten days in order that anyone wishing to contribute to this good cause may have the opportunity to do so. Send in your subscriptions now.

Ancient Fairs

The Leipzig fairs are among the oldest and most important in Europe, dating probably to the Twelfth century. There are two a year. The Jubilate fair lasts from the first Monday in March until the Saturday of the following week, while the Michaelmas fair begins on the last Sunday of August and continues three weeks.

BUYS NEWSPAPER.

James G. May has purchased The New Lexington Herald, a weekly of the publisher and proprietor, P. M. Cullinan. It will be continued by the other paper in New Lexington and Mr. May will move the plant to New Concord where he now publishes a weekly, The Enterprise, and will combine the two plants. Mr. May is a brother of Attorney Charles H. May, of this city, and a son of Dr. J. B. May, of New Holland.

WINGED MESSENGERS.

A flock of carrier pigeons sent out by the National Pigeon Fanciers' association of Cleveland will be sent to Agent Noel Frey of The American Railway Express company, Saturday. The birds will be given their liberty at the Union station Sunday morning at 7 o'clock Central Standard time.

MILK is the best food for growing children. It contains all the food material needed for the proper development of their bodies. No other food can be used in its place, because no other food supplies equal nourishment and building material for muscle, bones and teeth. Children who may be under-weight, anaemic or otherwise delicately constituted, begin to thrive as soon as given a liberal allowance of pure rich milk.
If you would see your children grow sturdy and smiling, with sparkling eyes, rosy, dimpled cheeks, firm flesh and a sound, untroubled stomach—use scientifically pasteurized milk.

Bothersome Odds and Ends

By RUBY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

GLORIA TANNER had won a little closed car in a raffle that had been held in the village.

"It is a direct answer to my supplications," she said, happily.

"What do you mean?" asked her mother. "You surely can't mean that you would resort to prayer in anything so lawless as a raffle, my dear?"

Gloria laughed. "Of course not, mother. I mean that for weeks I have been casting about in the air, searching the future for what it might hold for me."

"Well—what has the car to do with it?" asked her mother.

"Everything," announced Gloria. "I shall call my profession—Odds and Ends! I shall advertise myself as a person who will attend to all the bothersome little odds and ends of the daily routine of a household—and, with my nice little new car, I shall be able to carry on a big business."

"I do not understand," persisted her mother. "I have never heard of it."

"Of course you haven't. Neither has anyone else."

Gloria was practical enough to have a working knowledge of household affairs and she knew all the petty needs, from going for the wet wash at half-past eight in the morning to collecting the rolls from the bakery on Saturday night.

She made out her list of housekeepers to interview and ascertained what their needs might be in the way of odds and ends. She gave them a weekly price to be charged for having all these errands done. For instance, Mrs. Smith had a washing that had to be delivered to the laundry at seven o'clock Monday morning and called for at 8:30, thus making it possible for her clothes to be hung on the line by the maid of all work by nine o'clock. Gloria decided she must suggest this idea to about five other women so that she could make the Monday morning trip profitable. Then at twelve o'clock, noon, she made arrangements to call at the schoolhouse for four different children who were too young to walk all the distance and get back to school by one o'clock. Their mothers wanted them to have a hot lunch but could not take the time to go for them. There was a weekly visit to a neighboring market where fresh fruit and vegetables could be purchased. She managed a list of eight housekeepers who wanted this service. Then there were children to take to the barber shop after school, little girls to go to their music lessons, the monthly bills to pay the first week of the month for others and a much time out of a busy woman's day. At the end of two months Gloria found herself having all she could possibly do. One person told another and her telephone was kept busy.

"My dear, I had no idea how many people would need this kind of service," Mrs. Tanner said to Gloria one night when her daughter arrived home with packages of vegetables and fruits, some picnic outfits, a pair of shoes that had been half-soled, a tire from a bicycle she had taken to be mended, some mason jars, a bundle of shirts from the Chainman, stamps and envelopes from the post office, a suit of clothes from the tailor's.

Gloria laughed. What's on the list since I left?" she asked.

"Oh, Helen Morris is having a bridge Wednesday afternoon and wants talls and some one to take her two small girls for the afternoon."

And thus the little business Gloria called "Odds and Ends" grew so fast that it took most of the time of both mother and daughter.

In the background—much farther back than he would have liked to be—was a rather doleful young man, Arthur Mudge. He and Gloria had been childhood sweethearts.

One day he came upon her on the dirt road she often used because it was a short cut between her home village and Hempstead. She was looking disconsolately at a very flat rear shoe on her overloaded station wagon.

"Kind-a flat, Gloria," Arthur remarked as he parked his own roadster just ahead of her.

Gloria laughed, but she was tired and in a hurry and Arthur felt that there were tears close behind the surface.

"I was just wondering what to do," she said.

"And along comes—the man who wants always to be near you when you are in trouble," he said, pulling off his coat and getting out the jack.

"Yes—I know, but—"

"Never mind, now, dear. Get busy with the lock on that spare tire and we'll have you on your way in a minute. This was not the time for me to say that."

In a surprisingly short time the new shoe was on and Arthur was leading the way toward home. Meantime Gloria, driving mechanically, was thinking. Why could she not get Arthur—since she knew they would be married eventually—to go into her business with her. His real estate business was not so flourishing but what he could give her a hand.

That night she called him up and together with her mother they planned an extended business.

"And eventually, Gloria?" he whispered in her ear as they stood saying good night on the fragrant, vine-covered porch.

"Oh—yes; eventually we'll enter a partnership to last until 'death does us part,'" she replied.

INHUMAN MOTHER

Behind Bars For Killing Four of Her Children.

Laurel, Miss., Aug. 25.—(UP.)—Mrs. Scott Allen, 35, mother of six, is held in jail today in connection with the slaying of four of her young children.

Mrs. Allen seized with a religious frenzy yesterday, according to neighbors, killed the children, ranging in age from 4 months to six years, with an axe, "because the Holy Ghost told me to turn my children over to him."

A week ago Mrs. Allen became affiliated with a religious sect holding camp meetings here. She was designated to the missionary field, neighbors said. What to do with her six children had puzzled the woman.

"Do what the Lord tells you to do," the leader of the meetings is said to have told the woman.

RUBBER TREE

INDUSTRY

Manila, P. I., Aug. 25.—(UP.)—Planting of rubber trees began today on the first unit of an extensive project that is expected to produce a million pounds of rubber annually after six years.

This project, financed by American, Filipino and Chinese capital, is in the northern Zamboanga area. Twenty-five hundred acres, the limit that may be held under the law, will be planted now. The area will be enlarged by additional individual holdings grouped under a single management.

The plantation is the first to be planted since the United States Department of Commerce began agitating for an independent American rubber source.

The editor of the Contractors and Engineers' Monthly says that the origin of the custom of placing a flag or tree when the highest part of any structure is completed he believes originated in Germany. It is simply a good luck omen and was designed to protect the building from evil spirits. In other countries, it is still the custom for the owner to treat the workmen to "drinks" as soon as the tree is placed on the ridge pole.

Strange Furs on Fashion Program

Giraffe and Even Zebra Are Among Innovations of Present Year.

New collections of summer furs shown in Paris are interesting to America principally as harbingers of fashions in furs for the coming winter, for, except for such skins as the very fine, short-haired "Baranduckl," that is hardly warmer than a fabric, furs are rarely used during the summer months even as trimmings.

In the search for novelties to equal the success of the leopard, gazelle and pony skins, according to a Paris correspondent in the New York Times, the designers this year have seized upon giraffes and even zebras. Max has made an intriguing circular cape of giraffe, cut in many petal-gores radiating from the neck, each gore emphasized by using the dark part of the skin to form a stripe.

This ability to form shaded stripes from the spotted giraffe skin is utilized amusingly in another circular garment from this house—this time a coat in which the stripes run horizontally about the cloak to exaggerate its fullness. These same stripes appear to continue around the underside of the coat, the lining of crepe de chine duplicating them in as nearly the same tones as possible.

Very often the real beauty of a fur in coloring is only realized when a bit of rich fabric of the same tone is put beside it. Certainly the belted sports coat shown in giraffe gains much from the scarf collar and cuffs of a silky woolen material in Roman stripes showing all the fine distinctions of color tone found in the spotted skin.

Sleek, glistening coats in gazelle and pony, shown last winter, are outdone by the coats of natural seal now being featured. These skins of unplucked seal look as glossy and smooth as the seal itself when it slides and scrambles in and out of the water. The shawl collar of rabbit, dyed dark brown, hardly relieves the impression of too great reality.

The expensive furs—Russian sable, chinchilla, mink, Siberian squirrel—are not subject to changes in popular favor except in the matter of cut. The skins themselves are always lovely and much to be desired. The majority of coats in these furs hold to the simple, straightline models, though a few follow the lines advanced for cloth coats by the great couturiers in their midseason collections. That is, the back waist of the coat is bloused over a tight, straight skirt much as kimono coats were cut a few years ago. When they are made after this fashion, the pelts are matched to lie vertically on the full, bloused back and horizontally about the narrow skirt.

Paris relinquishes the idea of dyed furs very reluctantly. Squirrel dyed in a taupe shade is often seen, while the collections include capes in clipped rabbit in burgundy, dark green, amethyst and other surprising if subdued shades. No restrictions whatever as to vividness bother the designer who is considering mere trimming notes, such as collars and cuffs.

The very flat furs, such as gazelle, giraffe and zebra, lend themselves very readily to the manufacture of small articles, and the coat in these furs that is offered without its purse to match, made of the same fur, is rare indeed.

Smart Types in Coats for Street or Sports

New weaves in sturdy coatings, new colors and color combinations are the most interesting style points in the latest coats, suited to street or sport wear. They are made on simple lines and, as a rule, are collared with luxurious fur. The model shown is a peach-colored affair, with cross-bar in brown, and a fluffy collar of badger fur.

Black With Green in Prints

Among the smartest frocks for mid-summer are those of printed chiffon which emphasizes the vogue of shades of green and black used together. Occasionally one sees a touch of black lace, but otherwise they are untrimmed.

Lace Coats Good

Short and sleeveless are the loose lace coats that are being worn over solid color, plain, chiffon frocks. Being very full in back, they ripple in capelike effect and reach just about to the waist.

THE STATE FAIR

Is All Set For Opening Next Week.

Columbus, Aug. 26.—With compilation of entries for the 1926 State Fair livestock departments practically completed, a splendid indication of the quality of next week's exposition is available.

According to Chas. V. Truax, Director of Agriculture, the success of every phase of the livestock exhibition is definitely assured.

"Practically every department on the grounds is far ahead of last year, while many are setting new records for Ohio and for fairs of the country as well," Director Truax states.

A week before the opening of State Fair, there were more than 40 head of horses entered for the liberal premium awards than were shown last year, when a total of 282 pure bred Belgian and Percherons competed in the Coliseum arena. In the cattle department, new herds will be represented, while the aggregate number of animals to be displayed will be materially above the figures established a year ago.

In the swine department, the Berkshire classification already has twice as many animals enrolled as were entered in the 1925 fair. Durocs and Polands are well up to their usual standards. Every breed that will compete in the big swine arena with its four comfortable grandstands shows an increase over last year.

More than 2,500 head of sheep will be in the rings next week. This will maintain for Ohio the lead long held in its sheep show.

In checking over the entries recorded for the coming competitions, it is discovered that Ohio State University is credited with being the largest single competitor in the livestock departments. Two breeds of horses, 14 beef cattle, four of dairy cattle, two of hogs and six breeds of sheep have been qualified by this state institution.

KENTUCKY

WILD WEST

Pineville, Ky., Aug. 25.—(UP.)—Three men were reported killed today in a gun fight over a girl in the mountains near here.

County officers left for the scene of the fight immediately upon receiving reports that George Whitehead 20, Frank Blanton 19 and Chester Hoskins 18, had killed each other. They were not expected to return here for several hours and in the meantime details were lacking.

The report received here said that the fight followed an attempt of Blanton to interfere with the engagement of Miss Maggie Whitehead to Hoskins.

During the dispute Whitehead took his revolver and shot Blanton, a stray bullet killing Hoskins the report said. A bystander intervened and in the scuffle with Whitehead over the revolver it was accidentally discharged and Whitehead killed.

Fashion Briefs That

Will Interest Women

The latest version of the popular frock of Chinese damask has a chemise front to add to its aspect of manishness.

Afternoon and evening frocks of moire often exploit a new shade of deep red, which is one of the smartest colors for early autumn.

The white wool suit on tailored lines, worn with the rather elaborate white silk or organdie blouse, is charming with the colored hat and colored footwear.

Just as suddenly as belts disappeared from all our gowns, so have they returned. The suede belts in bright colors vary in width from a quarter of an inch to three inches. Suede hat bands often match the belts.

A material for which success is predicted in early fall is moire. It is used both for evening frocks and for day-time costumes. One of the most attractive dresses is made of dark blue moire with touches of white in the collar and jabot.

One of the very feminine conceits of the mode is the use of the flower bracelet—a flower the color of one's frock, is slipped into one's bracelet or a ribbon band allowed to fall over the hand. Needless to state, this style is only for evening.

The red shawl for evening is given a conspicuous place as a complement to the white chiffon dance frock. Another charming fashion is seen in a slim gathered cape of red velvet which is worn over a white evening dress.

New sport handkerchiefs made of heavy-quality silk in light shades and having rolled hems and thread-line borders are just as useful as they are decorative. One corner is richly embroidered in raised work in small flower designs that take in a variety of colors.

If asked what is the outstanding feature of midsummer fashions, one would answer without hesitancy, the vogue of printed chiffons. Sheer and lovely in texture, either striking or subtle in coloring and with designs which reveal the artistry of the modern textile designer, this material has achieved an amazing success.

Untrimmed Slippers to Maintain Popularity

Plain, untrimmed slippers retain their popularity and are to be found in the wardrobes of the most fashionably dressed.

The vogue for the unusual has brought the fancier shoes into great prominence. Their selection must be discreet, for there is a vast difference between gaiety and vulgarity of taste.

This is equally true of frocks as well as slippers. Brilliance of coloring and broadness of pattern must go hand in hand with discrimination. Colors cannot be too bright, but they must be beautifully combined and the frocks they decorate must follow the lines of fashion.

Jumper Frocks Sleeveless

Sleeveless jumper frocks accompanied by short sports coats are among the summer sports styles. One lovely model made of cherry red silk broadcloth has its skirt portion of red, its jumper of white, dotted with huge cherry-red dots, and its red coat is lined in the white-dotted jumper material. A black satin streamer tie sets off the boyish collar of eton type.

Gowns to Suit Style

If a woman finds it unbecoming to wear the straight lines and abbreviated skirts of the present-day evening dresses, she always has the "robe de style" to fall back on. This term simply means a gown which in its composition is not in style, but which is becoming to the wearer and consequently thoroughly in style for her.

Artificial Tub Satin

A new material, which has beauty as well as practical qualities to recommend it, is an artificial satin said to launder satisfactorily. It comes in a wide range of colors and has a beautiful luster.

WILL NOT RESIGN

Washington, Aug. 25.—(UP.)—Ambassador James R. Sheffield, here on leave of absence from his post in Mexico City, has the full confidence of the administration and will not resign, Secretary of State Kellogg announced today after a three hour conference on Mexican affairs.

The ambassador is here on regular leave of absence Kellogg emphasized, indicating his visit had no special significance.

Following issuance of this statement, Kellogg and Sheffield resumed their conference, which it was indicated, might last the rest of the day.

The religious dispute and the tangle over the oil and land laws are understood to be the chief topics discussed. Sheffield, it is believed presented to Kellogg Mexico's reply to the last United States note asking more specific information on disputed points in the oil and land law discussion.

THE WHOLE WORLD

Realizes today that all prosperity depends on the prosperity of the farmer—1925 was a better year than 1924 and 1926 will be still better. The farmer is represented by a majority of land owners and real dirt farmers in all legislative bodies—State or National. The great demand for food is increasing as the population grows. We can't exist without good, wholesome food and the farmer that produces what we eat must be properly compensated.

The sources of money supply are alive to the fact that money loaned on farm lands is safest. Rates on City property is usually 6½ per cent. We have unlimited money for the farmer at 5 per cent and 5½ per cent.—10 and 20 years. You to select the loan that suits your purpose best. We have farms for sale that will pay you to own. ## MAKING A MONUMENT.

Even the plainest—is a more difficult task than one would suppose. It involves much thought, and perhaps many conferences, as to the design, the kind of stone, the lettering, and so forth. Then the work has to be done by skillful sculptors and others. But we always manage to give satisfaction.

HARTMAN THEATER.

Resplendent in its new dress—new
and elaborate settings, new costumes,
new effects, to say nothing of new songs, gags and comedy features, the fortieth edition of Al G. Field minstrels opens at the Hartman theater,
Columbus, for the week commencing Monday, August 30.

The management this year terms
the production, "The Fortieth Fete" in commemoration of the fortieth anniversary of this popular organization and the first part is a celebration of this eventful epoch of minstrelsy.

The fortieth annual edition will be presented with all the favorites who have helped for many years to build an enviable reputation for this company, the aim of which is to keep the spirit of old-time minstrelsy in the hearts of the people and in this they have been more than successful.

Blackface Eddie Ross with his African harp, is the principal funmaker.
Jack Richards, the Welsh tenor, is at the head of the cast of singers. And there are Billy Church, Lloyd Gilbert, Dolf Kaston, Harry Frillman, Leslie
Barry and a host of other good voices.
Then there is John Healy with his inimitable "Old Black Joe," Harry Frankel, the big boy with the big voice
a blackface comedian who has gained great favor with minstrel fans; Jack Kennedy, who received his training
under George "Honey Boy" Evans, and a dozen nimblefooted dancers.

Old-time minstrelsy with modern trimmings is the backbone of this fortieth celebration and the semi-circle, the end men and all the characteristics of the old-time minstrel show
have been kept in tact.

Seats go on sale next Thursday morning. Mail orders may be sent

Ancient Luxuries?

Can it be that the luscious frank-

in Edmund Spenser's "Mother Hub-

"chafed Lyons," referring, perhaps,
to the celebrated "saucisson" manufactured in that town.—The Outlook.

Operating your automobile without public liability and property damage insurance is like risking your life to save your hat.

The greatest possible savings that you can make by neglecting to insure
is the few dollars that a policy cost
you.

Compare this with the big damage
judgments that are being given today.
The ten, twenty-five or even thirty-five thousand dollars that you might be forced to pay to an injured claimant, if you had an accident and no in-

It is worth while? To risk thou-everything you own just to save the few cents a day that an automobile

policy would cost you?

COLLEGIANS
SCHEDULED
ON SATURDAY

"The Hottest Band in Months," is
the verdict of devotees of the dance
on the State Collegians scheduled for their final appearance of the summer season next Saturday night at the Athletic club. So favorable has been their impression on dance-loving patrons of the Jitney dances at the club
that the committee is contemplating on hiring them for Pumpkin Show week.

The smooth flowing and rhythmic jazz as well as the snappy blues numbers of this bunch of young Collegians
has set the feet of dancers to shuffling all over the states. The crowd of onlookers wherever they play is noticeably small, not because of lack of entertainment, but because the music proves irresistible to anyone with a spark of rhythm in their make-up.

The usual admission of 25 cents will be charged and dancing will be park
plan.

AMUSEMENTS

Romance, brightened with humor,
spiced with thrilling action, set midst magnificent society backgrounds and rendered into a thing of film delight
by a gorgeously gowned cast of ample merit—that, in brief, describes "The Untamed Lady" which made a triumphphant debut last night at the Met theater.

This new vehicle was written for Miss Swanson by Fannie Hurst, and presents Gloria as a lovely, alluring
society heiress, with twenty million dollars, whose only liability is an uncontrollable temper. What happens when her fiancé—the fourth, by the way—decides to break her spirit, provides most of the comedy, drama and genuine heart appeal that make this photoplay as stimulating and refreshing an entertainment as one could possibly wish for.

Gloria never looked more beautiful nor acted with greater zest. Lawrence Gray, as the caveman lover,
plays his role with commendable zeal and vigor, and Joseph Smiley gives a capital performance as the easygoing
"Uncle George."

Frank Tuttle, who directed the production, based on James Creelman's adaptation of the story, has staged it with an opulence in keeping with its multimillionaire background. Scenes of the Yale-Princeton football game,
of a fashionable Long Island country club, of a hunting lodge in the Cats-kills, of a lavishly outfitted yacht and of the interiors of a wealthy mansion
give the photoplay a society authenticity.

Just for good measure, there is a thrilling horseback chase as well as a raging storm at sea, during which Gloria is forced to shovel coal in the boiler room of the yacht.

Mohammedan Center Is Inaugurated in Paris

Paris.—The new Mohammedan Institute, which will form a home and center for Mohammedans in Paris, has recently been inaugurated by the Sultan of Morocco and other Mohammedan rulers.

The institute consists of a group of buildings just behind the Jardin des Plantes on the hill where the University of Paris was founded. Its creation is expected to strengthen the bond between the French and the population of their colonies.

The institute in itself is remarkably similar to an English college. The mosque is in the center. On one side of it is the residence of the imam, the chaplain, and on the other that of the mufti, the principal. Across the yard is the lecture hall, and above it are the students' rooms. Young Mohammedans who come to Paris will be given the opportunity to use these rooms, and there will be registrars to assist them. The collegiate and religious sections of the institute are separated from the commercial end, in which there are shops, the cafe and baths. Outside customers can make their purchases from these shops
without entering the premises, as they open on the street.

The French government gave 500,- 000 francs toward the erection of the buildings. Paris furnished the site, and the balance was received in contributions from the African colonies.

pleted will be one of the biggest ves-

will be a 40,000-ton vessel. Heretofore France, in her maritime enterprises, has gone in for elegance and comfort in her passenger ships.

PENNEY STORE
OPENING IN CIRCLEVILLE

New Trading Place in Crist
Block on North Court Street Doing Business.

The opening of the seven hundred and twenty-seventh store of the J. C.
Penney & Co., chain of trading places
thruout the United States was accomplished Thursday in the Crist building, 125 North Court street.

The store presents a most inviting appearance as the ample show windows display an elegant line of merchandise, with prices that are tempting to the thrifty purchaser.

The pricing of merchandise in the Penney store is one of the points of success of the new company and it follows along the same line in all chain stores. A moderate and living profit is asked and your money is returned if the article is not satisfactory
when you reach home. This is one of the firm's fixed policies and is strictly adhered to. No goods are sold on credit and the firm keeps no book accounts, other than those of the business of the firm.

The store is stocked with medium priced goods worth the money. The Penney company never advertises
special sales, so bargain hunters v'll
be grievously disappointed if they are waiting for a sale. "Penney does not have them," said Mr. Read, the manager, when asked by a representative of this paper. "Another thing you can tell the public," said the manager
"is, that we employ local help in our stores, as far as we can and while, in a sense, it's a chain store, the manager is vitally interested in the success of the store. Building a nice trade in any community helps the manager
as much as the company, for the manager's money is invested in the store
of which he is a part."

There are no department clerks as any clerk can take his customer from one department to another. The company has found by experience that the customer likes this method better than turning a customer over to a clerk in charge of another department. The country style of waiting on a customer is adhered to in all the Penney stores.

One thing is noticeable all goods
contained in boxes bear the imprint of Penney & Co. You look in vain for any particular brand of merchandise.
The company buys the output of a mill and all goods come under the Penney name and are sold with the Penney guarantee, not the manufacturer's.

While many may not welcome another chain store, we might as well make up our minds to give them the glad hand, for they may do their share
in keeping in Circleville the trade that now goes to other cities. There are now many thousand chain stores in the United States, one operating groceries has over seven thousand.
Since the A. & P. and Kroger stores
have been established in our midst,
they do not seem to have hurt other stores, for the local concerns, are still doing business at their old stands.

The Penney store is managed by capable gentlemen and a retinue of clerks, locally and personally known to the trading public.

The personnel is, C. E. Read, of Hailey, Idaho, manager; M. C. Mose-ley, of Warrensburg, Kentucky, assistant manager; Miss Katharine Millions, cashier and bookkeeper.

The clerks are Paul Mason, Mrs.
Elmer Robison, Mrs. May Bostwick
and Miss Grace Cameron. On Saturdays extra help will be secured.

The new company is essentially a department store; dry goods, ready-to-wear, yardage, men's and boys' clothing, shoes for the entire family, millinery, notions, rubber footwear, both men's and ladies' furnishing goods, also a line of cosmetics.

The entire first floor of the building
has been outfitted with the last word
in Grand Rapids store fixtures; the appointments are perfect and everything is in apple pie order. The arrangement of the store could not be bettered, and it is a credit to the manager who seems to know his business. Both Mr.
Read and his assistant, Mr. Moseley have brought their families with them
and are now located in this city and expect to become a part of the life of the community and to take an active interest in everything that is for the betterment of the city, and county.

Odd Wedding Present

One of the most coveted of wedding gifts among the natives of the Argentine, it is said, is a lot of 100 or more old tin cans. These are used by the bridal couple in the construction of their house. Hence the cans,
usually discarded in the United States,
takes on unusual value in the land
around the underside of the world.

Values of Oats and Corn Used in Ration

Concentrates and Carbohydrates for Horses.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Oats are one of the best concentrates for feeding horses. The protein and carbohydrate contents of this grain are better proportioned for this purpose than in the case of corn, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The hull in which the oat kernel is incased, though of small nutritive value, greatly improves the physical character of the feed by adding bulk. Oats should be rolled or ground for very young horses, but may be fed to the mature animals either whole or ground. In order to prevent ravenous feeders from choking it is advisable to place a little chopped clover hay, wheat bran or
a few whole corn cobs in the feed box with the oats. While oats may form the entire grain ration for horses the substitution of two or three pounds
of wheat bran will improve the daily ration, provided it does not produce a too laxative effect.

Corn is more generally grown than oats in many horse-producing sections and for this reason and because it is usually more economical to feed it is often given preference over oats. Because of the high carbohydrate content more energy per pound is derived from corn than from any other grain suitable for horse feed. Since corn is somewhat low in protein it is well to supplement it with a leguminous hay. The combination of corn and alfalfa hay as a ration for horses is growing in favor. Equal parts by weight of these feeds very nearly make a balanced ration. In the absence of legumes a little linseed meal
or some other protein concentrate may be fed with the corn. Corn is not only fattening and heat-producing but also very palatable. Horses unaccustomed to corn must not be changed to it suddenly because of danger from colic or other digestive disturbances.

Corn is generally fed on the cob
or shelled, but sometimes is used in the form of corn-and-cob meal. This feed, which is particularly suitable for horses which lack the necessary
time or teeth to chew unground corn thoroughly, is of about the same feeding value pound for pound as shelled corn. Certain precautions must be taken in feeding it, however, as when stored for a time it has a tendency to generate heat with the consequent formation of mold. For this reason it is best to grind the grain only as needed.

Several Advantages in Fall Freshening of Cow

There are several advantages in having the cows freshen in the fall provided there is a sufficient supply of labor available during the winter months. Cows freshening in the fall
may be fed so that they will produce
a good flow of milk during the winter months. During the latter part of this period the flow tends to decrease, but it will be increased with the stimulus of spring pasture. The period of smallest flow will be during the latter part of the summer, when conditions
are not favorable for high milk production and labor can be used to advantage in other farm work. This tends to equalize labor to a greater extent than when the majority of the cows freshen in the spring.

Calves born in the fall make good growth during the winter and are able to make some use of the pasture in the spring. Calves born in the spring are not sufficiently mature to make much use of pasture even in the latter part of the same season, on account of the annoyance of heat and flies.

Sulphur-Lime as Summer Fungicide for Peaches

The New Jersey Agricultural experiment station is still recommending dry-mix sulphur-lime as a summer
fungicide for peaches for the control of scab and brown rot. Four pounds of high calcium lime should be added
to every 50 gallons of 8-4-50 dry-mix
used in combination with lead arsenate
in order to avoid arsenical injury.
Growers making their own dry-mix should use eight pounds of lime with every eight pounds of sulphur when preparing mixtures to be used in combination with lead arsenate. It is also recommended that the amount of lead arsenate be limited to one pound of the powdered form to 50 gallons of spray mixture. Special care should be exercised in measuring or weighing lead arsenate since more than the recommended amount may cause serious injury to twigs and foliage.

We have never had any serious difficulty with dry-mix so far as staining
the fruit is concerned, says a writer in the Rural New Yorker. As a matter of fact, the fruit staining caused by dry-mix is much less than that caused by self-boiled lime-sulphur.

Ideal Brood Sow

The ideal brood sow has a long,
deep body, of uniform width from shoulder to ham with a wide spring of rib, wide loin and a strong, evenly arched back. She is medium to heavy boned and has legs of medium length.
The heart girth should be full and the sides straight and even. The coat of hair should be smooth and fine. The jowl should be trim and there should be a complete absence of coarse features about the head and of deep creases and wrinkles in the skin.

Giraffe's Water Supply

The giraffe is believed to exist for three-quarters of the year in North Kalahari without water. But this cannot be proved until the desert has been explored. There is known to be water beneath the surface, and if the giraffe does live waterless, he must imbibe his liquid nutriment at second hand in the juices of the leaves of the trees which have their roots in the moisture.

Freezing Quicksands

To make it possible to operate in quicksands, engineers are accustomed to congeal them by forcing into them
brines and other liquids at low temperatures.

HORN ABUSED BY SOME MOTORISTS

Sound of Warning Is of Value When Approaching a Crossroad.

Never before in the history of the automobile has there been so much abuse of the automobile horn. Horns are better sounding and more reliable than they ever were, yet this appears to be of no advantage in regard to their use.

Unquestionably motorists are becoming a bit vain over the noise their horns make, because experience shows that the horn button is always overworked where cars are thickest and where honking is least necessary. That is because each driver is trying to outdo the other. Some one horns and the first thing you know they are all doing it. Conversely, because the audience along the highway is so scant by comparison the horn is silenced. No one on the road would jump a foot when it is sounded.

This business of burning the headlights in daytime during a long tour as a means of wasting some of the electric current so as not to overheat the battery would be unnecessary. The horn motor offers a means of wasting current, and, at the same time, of using it to good advantage. Headlights in the daytime are useless because their rays cannot be seen until one is looking straight into the reflectors. A warning then is unnecessary.

Honking at all the curves, crossroads, school houses, upon passing other cars and before reaching the crest of a steep hill where another car may be approaching on the wrong side of the road, furnishes an excellent way of not only forestalling damage to the battery but to the whole car as well—not forgetting the occupants.

Word of Caution.

In honking generously, however, a word of caution is appropriate. The careful driver never keeps his horn blowing constantly while rounding a curve or approaching a crossroad. To do so would be deafening himself to the sound of another horn which may be blown as a warning to him. In such cases the effect is the same as though neither driver sounded a warning; and the results are much more serious, because when a driver has given a warning he assumes that he has paved his way to safety and immediately puts on more steam.

When the cars suddenly appear face to face the drivers are caught off their guard. Their excessive surprise may occasion them to act less sensibly than if caught in the usual predicament as a result of not honking at all. The solution is to horn intermittently.

This matter of intermittent honking is of particular value when approaching a blind alley or a crossroad in the wake of another car. Many drivers have a habit of assuming that if the driver of the car ahead horns at a crossing that is sufficient warning for both. But experience proves that it is not. The motorist coming out of the side road hears one horn and naturally assumes there is but one car coming. He proceeds to cross the main road and precipitates a collision.

Coming From Side Road.

The man coming on from a side road seldom horns because he feels that he should give the right of way (not according to law, but for safety's sake) to the faster traffic of the highway. If two or more highway cars, therefore, begin relying upon the honking of the machine in the lead there is bound to be trouble sooner or later.

In the city honking is becoming a nuisance. A motorist who recently put up over night at a downtown hotel suffered insomnia because of the incessant honking of cars at the corner.

A motorist may think the pedestrian plays no important part in his motorizing, but just the same the length of time he must wait at a crossing depends largely upon how long it takes for the pedestrian to cross. A blast of the horn may get the pedestrian "traffic dizzy" and so prolong the agony. There is a time to horn and a time to remain silent; and it only requires a little headwork to differentiate between them.

Best Driving Code Quite Simple One

Have you ever stopped to consider the signal code of the average driver? It is a very simple code and not difficult to acquire. It follows:

To indicate a right turn—stick out your hand.
To indicate a left turn—stick out your hand.
To indicate that you are about to stop—stick out your hand.
To indicate that you are about to back—stick out your hand.
To emphasize your conversation with your fellow passenger—stick out your hand.
To flick the ashes off your cigar—stick out your hand.
This is the generally accepted code. Under the circumstances, it is remarkable that accidents are not more frequent.

Windshield Wiper With Semi-Automatic Device

My car had only the ordinary windshield wiper operated by hand. This was rather inconvenient and tiresome, so I rigged up a semi-automatic attachment which proved entirely satisfactory. I took about six inches of spring from an old shade roller and fastened it to the right side of the windshield. Then I fastened the other end to the knob of the wiper, regulating the tension so that the wiper would be pulled over quickly. A pulley in the upper left-hand corner, er, through which is run a stout cord fastened to the knob, completes the device. When it rains I loop one end of the string around my hand, and when the windshield needs wiping a downward sweep of my hand pulls the wiper over and when I let go the spring pulls it back again. The cost was only ten cents for the pulley.—Dr. E. W. Henke, Newark, N. J., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Semi-Automatic Windshield Wiper Which Does the Work Automatically and Costs Only a Few Cents.

Safe Conduct on Roads Is Founded on Courtesy

"It is almost axiomatic," writes the manager of a traffic bureau, "that safe conduct on highways is founded on courtesy."

"A million detailed traffic rules cannot cover up that fact. There is no substitute for courtesy anywhere, least of all on a crowded highway."

There used to be more of it, this traffic man says, than there is now.

"That was in the days when automobiles were new and few. It was natural then for drivers to treat each other courteously, as they would do in meeting neighbors on the street, or touching elbows with them at theater or church."

"But with the increase of traffic pressure on space and nerves they have lost that fine old spirit of mutual accommodation."

"It may be harder now not merely because there are so many more cars on the road, but because 'all kinds of people are driving them.'"

"There may be a larger proportion of bores and thugs behind steering wheels than there were in the primitive traffic days of ten to fifteen years ago. Yet it is still true that courtesy is the great solvent."

"Gentlemanly—and ladylike—conduct is contagious, and tends to multiply itself on the road as it does anywhere else."

Locomotive Hits Tot and Blacks His Eye

South Bend, Ind.—A black eye was the extent of injuries received by Leonard Lehr, twenty-one-month-old son of W. W. Lehr of Niles, Mich., when a South Bend-Niles train on the Michigan Central struck the child, who was sitting on one of the rails. The engineer saw the youngster and blew the whistle, but the child refused to move and was carried under the wheels of the locomotive. "Providence saved my child," the mother told reporters.

PLUCKY AIRMAN
RESCUES HIMSELF

Belleville, Pa., Aug. 25.—After a harrowing experience in the rough country on the eastern slope of the Alleghenies, Lieut. Cyrus K. Beebe, army flying ace, was in the Center County Hospital here tonight slowly recovering from serious but not critical injuries received when he hit a mountain side.

Missing for more than 43 hours and with painful wounds, the stout hearted airman virtually rescued himself. His left leg was broken below the knee and both jaws were fractured, but, despite these injuries, he crawled and hopped through the thick forests of Seven Sister Mountains until he came to a roadside today and waited for help to come along.

IF MOSQUITO BITES
DON'T DISTURB HER

Operation Painless If She Is Let Alone.

Chicago.—If a mosquito bites you on the face it isn't necessary to turn the other cheek, but don't slap the insect.

That advice was issued, not by the secretary of any society for prevention of cruelty to mosquitoes, but by Maj. Edwin M. Skinner, engineer in charge of mosquito abatement work for the Gorgas memorial institute. He was actuated by no love of insects, he said but by sympathy with a much-bitten public.

The engineer explained his paradoxical admonition thus:

"Human blood is too thick for the mosquito to imbibe. Therefore, after she has probed your skin she proceeds to inject a liquid to dilute your blood. This liquid is acid, and causes the well-known sting. If you allow the mosquito to finish her meal in peace, she will draw most of the fluid out with your blood, thus leaving you little the worse for your experience. If on the other hand you smash her, she obviously cannot withdraw it, and you know that you have been bitten."

May Carry Malaria Germs.

"Sometimes the fluid is more than exasperating, for it may carry whatever germs the mosquito has extracted from her latest victim. It is the diluting liquid of the anopheles mosquito that carries malaria, a disease which is possible in this section, although not common."

Always, in referring to mosquitoes that bite, Major Skinner used feminine pronouns. He was asked why. "Because the lady mosquitoes are the only ones that bite," he said. "So far as we know, the males may not eat anything as long as they live, which isn't long. They have two days or less in the world, and their only function is breeding."

"Not so the females. They live several months. Those which are born late in the season sometimes hibernate and come out again the following spring."

Doesn't Feed on Blood.

"The big job of the female is to mature the eggs that are to become new mosquitoes. And it's part of that job to bite human beings and animals. For simple nutrition she relies mainly on what she can get from ordinary moisture. She drinks blood not primarily as food but as a substance that helps to mature her eggs. It has been said that if we could keep mosquitoes from biting any one or anything we could prevent the birth of any more mosquitoes."

"At any rate, the main reason why the gentleman mosquitoes don't bite us in that they have no responsibility in the egg-maturing business. Another explanation, according to some observers, may be the handsome pair of plumes that every Mr. Mosquito has at each side of his head."

"He is very proud of these plumes, and uses them to court Mrs. Mosquito. Now, if he were to bite anyone, the plumes would get mussed up in the process. It's not unreasonable to suppose that his vanity, therefore, helps to deter him from biting."

How Old Is Antique?

U. S. Would Like to Know

Washington. — The weakness of Americans for purchasing antiques or anything labeled "antique" has aroused the interest of the government and a consequent investigation resulted in a warning to customs agents to be more wary in designating "antiques," which are allowed free entry.

Two recent investigations revealed that the signer of a certificate of antiquity on an article in Japan "knew nothing whatsoever about the particular merchandise, nor about the general subject of artistic antiques."

J. D. Nevius, acting director of customs, ordered the closer scrutiny hereafter.

"The average dealer," he said, "is also willing to sell as antiques any other objects he may have and to execute any kind of a statement regarding them that his customer may desire."

Masher Mowed Down With Club by Enraged Girl

San Antonio, Texas.—Enraged when a masher accosted her one night recently, a San Antonio girl took the law into her own hands and with a huge club "mowed him down."

Police found the man unconscious a few minutes later and took him to the hospital, where physicians and nurses worked over him to restore him to consciousness.

Neighbors saw the man approach the girl and say:

"Hi, good lookin'."

A moment later they saw her seize a club, knock him flat on the sidewalk, and then continue down the street.

"RED BIRD"

A REAL CHATTERLESS MOTOR OIL FOR FORDS

"REDBIRD" Chatterless Motor oil is a new development in motor fuels—made especially for Ford cars. It has all the good points necessary to an efficient motor oil—high viscosity; high flash and fire test; efficient lubrication; low carbon test; refined from purest crudes; is uniform—every drop is just like every other drop, made possible by chemical tests in refining and refining equipment unsurpassed in America.

Motor Oil forms a resilient, springy film of protection between the cylinder walls and moving pistons that prevents wear and overheating; that means years of additional service. Redbird Chatterless Motor Oil reduces friction to a minimum—the power stroke drives the piston without the resistance of friction. The result is a surge of power speed, responsiveness and economy of fuel.

How "Redbird" Chatterless Motor Oil Helps The Motor

Motors whose crankcases are filled with "Redbird" Motor Oil run smoother, quieter and with less vibration—they ride easier. Redbird Chatterless

Stops "Chattering"

REDBIRD Chatterless Motor Oil is designed especially to stop the "chattering" of Ford cars at starting and stopping. No motor oil is more efficient for this purpose than REDBIRD Chatterless Motor Oil.

Tidal Wave Plunges Islanders to Savagery

Apia, Samoa.—From the isolated coral atoll of Palmerston Island, lying between Samoa and Raratonga, news has just reached Apia of a tidal wave which three months ago swept over the island, destroying practically all property and reducing the inhabitants to most primitive condition. Only one life was lost.

Palmerston is peopled by about one hundred descendants of William Marsden, a British adventurer, who settled there in 1862 with his Polynesian wives. Its destitute condition was revealed only when Sir Maui Pomare, on the New Zealand government steamer Hinemoa, touched there on an inspection tour. Supplies were landed and a relief ship ordered immediately from Raratonga.

All houses were swept away except the church, and it was shifted from its foundation. All live stock perished except twenty chickens, five pigs and a cat. So complete was the destruction that the inhabitants were left without even fishing lines and hooks, but they caught fish with their hands and, supplementing this meager fare with fallen coconuts, managed to subsist until the Hinemoa arrived. The people received their rescuers with smiling faces and songs of welcome.

Tardiness Statistics

Industrial plants that keep a time record of their employees have found that there is most tardiness in arriving to work in the month of December. In March there is less lateness than in any other month of the year.

THE SECRETS OF MAMMOTH GERMAN GUN

Vast Piece Was 128 Feet Long and Fired Load 25 Miles Above Earth.

The secrets of the long-range German cannon that bombarded Paris from a distance of more than 60 miles closely guarded even after the armistice, have now been permitted to leak out, following the recent death of the inventor, Dr. Fritz Rausenberger.

It has been generally guessed that the guns were the longest pieces of artillery that had ever been constructed, and the new information confirms these conjectures, for their length was 36 meters, or about 128 feet.

Each gun was assembled out of three principal parts. Into an ordinary 15-inch naval gun an inner tube of 8.2 inch caliber, 98.4 feet long, was fitted, and over the part that projected beyond the naval gun an additional strengthening hoop was shrunk on. The tons total weight of the piece was 154.

The weight of the 8.2 inch shell was 220 pounds; its wall thickness was about two and three-fourths inches at the base and a little over one and one-half inches at the top. Its head was given an extraordinarily long taper, fifteen to twenty inches, to aid in overcoming the resistance of the air.

To obtain its unprecedented range, the gun had to be fired at an extreme elevation. Theoretically, 45 degrees would have been the proper angle, but this would have been correct only in a vacuum, and to get the shell far up into the thin air, where resistance was low, the gun was set at 50 degrees.

The angle of elevation remained fixed, and to correct for differences in wind, air pressure, etc., the power charge was varied, being calculated anew for each separate shot. The charge for the longest range at which any of these guns were ever fired, 80 miles, was 660 pounds.

At the range of 74 miles, the shell reached heights of more than 25 miles, making more than two-thirds of its flight at elevations of more than six miles, or half a mile higher than Mt. Everest. The time of flight was three minutes.

Due to the great length of the gun and the very heavy powder charge, the comparatively light shell left the gun's muzzle at the velocity of more than a mile a second, with the enormous muzzle energy of 43,000 foot tons—enough to life the whole mass of the world's largest battleship a foot into the air.

Because the shells tended to drop on their target, the city of Paris, side wise instead of end-on, as a projectile normally does, it was necessary to provide them with two fuses to insure their explosion on impact.

The fuse system worked successfully for none of the shells that struck Paris failed to explode. Another difficulty arose due to the long, high flight of the shell; the rotation of the earth tended to deflect its path, sometimes nearly as much as half a mile.

The terrifically high pressure, temperature and friction of the discharge of the piece tended to make the barrel bulge slightly, and because of its great length the gun tended to "whip" raising the danger of a premature explosion of the shell in the tube. That did happen once, ruining one of the four guns. The other three, according to the terms of armistice, were dismantled and destroyed.

The designer of the battery was a well known authority on ballistics, and had for several years been associated with the Krupp firm. In addition to the long-range gun, he designed the great 42-centimeter, "Big Bertha" that destroyed the Belgian forts early in the war.

This was a relatively short-barreled howitzer of no great range, but of terrific smashing power, due to the enormous weight of its shells and the heavy charge of high explosive they carried.

New "Tracer" Bullet Checks Shooter's Aim

Washington.—A "tracer" bullet, producing a red streak 1,200 yards behind it has been developed by the army so that machine gunners may see the result of their aim.

A chemical solution in the base of the bullet igniting as it leaves the gun muzzle produces the streak, army officials explained, and will be of special value in aircraft fighting where it is difficult to estimate range and direction. The new bullet also is incendiary and will fire balloons and other inflammable objects. Red was chosen because it does not blend with sky tints and gives a longer defined trail. Tracer bullets are loaded in machine-gun ammunition belts.
